In 2014, our Mobile Phone Keypad business was impacted by dynamically changing handset industry and thus unable to support MH and 2D cover glass products that did not reach economy of scale. Yet management team is cautiously optimistic and confident that the worst is over and that this year financial results will bottom out. By utilizing Capital Surplus to distribute cash dividend, management team is demonstrating determination to turn around despite failing to transition in 2014. Moreover, in order to adapt and react to rapid changing handset industry, we adjust our corporate strategic development; the extension of core business to new industries and the development of new core technology.
